

TMRC was originally a network of Buddhist ministers who have been actively executing the practice of Vihara at local shelters of Hansen disease patients. The practice of Vihara is providing service of mental relaxation and comfort based on the Buddhist philosophy. In order to cater their Vihara service to the continent, TMRC was established as a non-profit organization with the participations of doctors, professors, principles, students, and etc. in 2003. Since then, TMRC's activities has expanded from mental relaxation service to the improvement of the community through constructing health clinics, schools, and water wells in other Asian countries, such as Nepal, Sri Lanka, Laos, Myammar, Cambodia, and Bangladesh.
